Prior to joining the Gilbert, Arizona, Vince served as Business Development Analyst for the Greater Phoenix Economic Council (GPEC) from May 2014 – May 2015. As part of the Business Development team, Vince provided economic data analysis and market research for business attraction purposes. Additionally, Vince assisted with project coordination by working directly with member communities to respond to business attraction projects across a wide range of industries.

Vince's initial professional background is in economic research. Vince participated in the GPEC Internship Program under the Research & Strategy team from May 2013 to May 2014. As an intern, Vince provided custom operating cost models, metro comparisons, and additional compelling research for a variety of projects.

Vince attained a Bachelor of Science in Mathematics (Statistics) at Arizona State University and is currently working toward a Master of Science in Strategic Analytics at Brandeis University. Vince has been a proud Gilbert resident for the past 12 years and an avid supporter of local business and economic gardening.
